

Animal Research Tomorrow

Animal Research Tomorrow (ART) is an international grassroots NGO promoting ethically responsible and state-of-the-ART animal research and proactive science communication.

ART Science Communication (SciComm) Awards aim to support young science communicators in promoting innovative and creative communication strategies and/or creating resources and tools for greater transparency on animal research. Award calls are open each summer with a deadline in late autumn. Award winners present their projects at the annual ART virtual Award Ceremony and Conference.
